Jump into a new future

First and foremost I've always been looking for ways of generating a passive income. This is something that was on the back of my mind since when I was a young kid; I clearly remember riding my bmx around my little town in Italy dreaming about owning lots and lots of houses that I could rent out in order to generate a passive income. Yes, property has been an interest that I've always had since I was 12 years old, having said that, I also figured out that it's not all about creating wealth, we need to find something that we are truly passionate about and that can give us purpose in life.

So going back to your question I got started with affiliate marketing a day while I was browsing around looking for info on how to start a profitable online business and I clearly remember coming across the videos from Stuart Ross and getting so interested in what he was sharing about digital marketing that I literally watched the entire 7 days video series all in one go.

I was so keen to find out more that I literally couldn't sleep all night. All I did from there was to start my online training course taking my time to learn and absorb all the info covered during the videos.

I can honestly say that this is my first business venture and it literally didn't cost me anything.
