Jump into a new future

I personally came across SFM through a video ad on YouTube. At that time I was browsing and searching for online business ideas and similar topics so obviously I was exposed to plenty of ads on online digital marketing.

To be entirely honest I didn't have any faith in any of the courses out there, they just didn't feel right, in fact every time I was making an enquiry only few minutes were enough to change my mind.

When I came across the videos from Stuart Ross and the SMF community, I had a completely different feeling and all of the sudden I had a clear vision of how I could make this working; it simply didn't sound like a sales pitch nor felt like a scam.

I also quite liked the fact that Stuart was very upfront saying that SFM is not for everyone and that only someone with the right mindset and the right commitment and hard work will see true success from this program.

I felt like I was getting into something real and more importantly the team has always been available to answer all of my questions since day one and this was truly important to me. I wanted to see that I was getting real value for money.
